PocketVPN - Best of WES 2007 Winner

CrackBerry.com has named PocketVPN as the winner of the Best of WES 2007 "No Brainer" Crackie Award.

Interview

In addition, I gave WICKSoft's president Will Hickie a quick Q&A on the application. I asked the Q's, Will provided the A's...

Q: In 3 sentences or less, give me a quick overview of PocketVPN

A: PocketVPN lets you access all of your files and folders in your office directly from the BlackBerry. It saves people time. With PocketVPN a lot of the things you would do from your laptop can now be done using the BlackBerry.

Q:BlackBerrys became successful in the Corporate world because of their security. How does PocketVPN ensure security will be maintained when accessing files?

A: PocketVPN leverages all of the existing security of the BlackBerry, and then on top of that, provides a whole extra layer of data-encryption. We also provide the administrator with a ton of policy based controls. With PocketVPN you can pretty much control exactly what you want your mobile users to access without spending a whole lot of time doing it. Nothing ever travels unencrypted, and everything gets logged.

Q: How should people go about implementing PocketVPN in their organization?

A: Download a 30-day trial from our website, at WICKSoft. The product was designed to be really easy to setup. The shortest install time that we have on record is 6 minutes, which I think is pretty good for an Enterprise application. We have a few white papers that explain various aspects of the system as well, which we're always happy to have people download. Email us or call us toll-free —we love to hear from people.

More Photos...

Took more photos of PocketVPN in action...didn't want to overload the blog post though.

See attached images...shows the emailing function as well.

Very impressive, someone was just asking for an application like this yesterday. Great work, WICKSoft!
